State Oil Group Hears Talk By Pew

Pocono Manor — Oil operations in the Gulf of Mexico are virtually at a standstill because of the "islands" ownership controversy between the Federal Government and oil-producing states, John G. Pew, Sun Oil Co. vice president in charge of production, declared here last night.

Exploration and drilling were going ahead with remarkable success before the Government's claim threw the operations into low gear and finally brought them almost to a halt, he told the Pennsylvania Petroleum Association at Pocono Manor Inn here.

Listing the objections raised by many industry leaders to the Government's claim, Mr. Pew asked:

"If the Government has power to take natural resources in the name of national defense, when and where will this super-federal power end?"

"Submerged lands could well mean lands under bays, rivers and lakes as well as under gulfs and oceans. And if the Government can claim oil, why not other natural resources as well?"

Mr. Pew also spoke strongly in favor of an adequate depletion allowance for oil producers and for conservation in the oil fields.

Percentage depletion, explained Mr. Pew, is simply a lawful deduction designed to encourage investors to risk money in the hazardous business of finding and producing oil.

"Remember that the oil operator spends his money drilling holes in the ground," said Mr. Pew. "Contrast his situation with the manufacturer who does not have to build numerous factories before he finds one that will make his product or the merchant who does not have to build numerous stores before he builds one from which he can sell his merchandise."

Neither, he went on, must make expenditures comparable with those of the explorer for oil or gas in order to locate his "business establishment" and both, when they invest their money, have something tangible to show for it.

"But," Mr. Pew asserted, "the oil operator has a hole in the ground which, unless it contains gas or oil, is not worth two cents to anyone."

"The odds against any single wildcat well containing enough gas and oil to pay the cost of it are 43 to 1," he said.

With the depletion allowance, said Mr. Pew, the oil producer has a chance—provided he drills some successful wells—to recapture the capital he loses on dry holes.

"To put an end to it, as some ill-advised people have urged, would spell the end of the wildcat and, in a short time, of the entire domestic production business under private operators," he continued.

Voting Machine Models To Be Placed In Polling Places

Instruction Available To All Voters

Thousands of voters still haven't seen or handled the voting machines which will be in use in the county for the first time next week.

To accommodate and prepare for these voters, commissioners yesterday put final touches on election-day plans.

There are two parts to the general plan.

One is to have available, at the polling places themselves, a man or woman trained in using the machine and who can answer any questions or make any demonstration needed by the voter.

The other is to have available at each polling place the small metal model of the voting machine, which has a face complete with handles, pointers, rows and counters, exactly like those on the big machines.

Chief Clerk Harry Taylor said yesterday there are enough ballot labels left over from the big machines so that these labels can be put on the models.

The result will be that the model will look exactly like the big machine, even down to the names of parties and candidates.

The models are supplied by the company with each machine purchased. Accordingly, there will be at the polls, one model for each machine.

Any voters who wish may practice on the model before stepping into the big voting machine.

There will be four "trained" persons present at most of the polling places. These will include, for the most part, the judges of elections, the majority and minority inspectors and the local constable.

Any of these officials will be able to answer questions regarding the machines.

OPENING OF DELAWARE WATER GAP'S "first" industrial development, Delaware Water Gap Industries, found prominent area men touring the Main St. plant. The industry, working with a $500,000 government contract, will turn out wooden boxes. Taking part in the ceremonies yesterday were Nathan Hammerman, partner in the firm; Rep. Francis E. Walter, of the 15th congressional district; Jacob Wachtman, executive secretary of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce; John H. Chamberlain, partner and Forrest Smith, chief burgess of the borough. (Daily Record photo)

$500,000 Government Contract Held By Water Gap Industry

Delaware Water Gap—Ceremonies held here yesterday officially opened this borough's "first" industrial development—Delaware Water Gap Industries.

Owned by Nathan Hammerman and John H. Chamberlain, the enterprise began production Sept. 15 with a federal government contract for $500,000 to make wooden boxes for branches of the armed forces.

Among those who toured the plant on Main Street were Rep. Francis E. Walter, congressional representative from the 15th district; Forrest Smith, chief burgess, and Jacob Wachtman, executive secretary of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce. The plant also was inspected by a number of local residents and several prominent Monroe County officials.

Chamberlain credited Congressman Walter with taking the initiative to bring the government contract to this section and said future plans call for expansion, with the ultimate goal of 52 employees on the agenda. At present 14 men are working at the plant, turning out all forms of frame boxes, many of them earmarked as ammunition carriers for the U.S. Army Ordnance Corps.

The partners disclosed an investment of $22,400 in machinery currently in operation, including six modern hauling machines which drive from eight to 20 nails into the boxes in one operation. Power saws and miscellaneous tools also augment the working stock.

Lumber used in the production comes generally from the Southern states, Chamberlain said, with many purchases being made locally. Shipment to Army, Navy and Marine Corps depots will be by both railroad freight and truck. Chamberlain said that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad has assured him their siding will be maintained for future operations.

The building formerly housed the Delaware Water Gap garage and is located on the east side of Main St. in the same building as the local postoffice. It contains 6,000 square feet of floor space for working and an extra 4,000 feet of cellar space for storage. The area is 75 by 120 feet, the partners said, with a building lot adjoining, 60 by 200 feet and an additional area in the rear available for expansion.

Chamberlain also noted employees are governed by the Walter-Healey federal act, stipulating union shop conditions for workers employed by firms utilizing government contracts. The bill was co-sponsored by Rep. Walter.

Two of the key personnel in production are Robert Altomese, nailing machine foreman and Sam Sharlot, wood shop foreman.

Appalachian Trail Hikers Stop At Gap

Delaware Water Gap—A couple who passed through this community last week soon will become members of one of the world's most exclusive groups, in point of numbers admitted "the Appalachian Trail Hikers."

In an interview the man and woman said they started from Philadelphia six months ago and when they return to the Quaker City will have covered 2,600 miles. The trail is blazed along the mountain ridges from Georgia to Maine, and some is difficult to climb and travel.

The couple said their nights have been spent sleeping out, with a plastic bag as their cover; have breakfasted often on uncooked oatmeal and brown sugar and also carried raisins, raw carrots and graham crackers to augment their diet.

The male member of the team wore tattered clothing, the result of six months of endurance. Mrs. Benjamin Wiberg, at whose store the couple stopped for breakfast, was assured she would learn of their Philadelphia arrival by mail. At that time the pair will have successfully completed their journey and become full-fledged members of the Appalachian Trail Hikers Club.

Council, Sewer Authority Discuss Filling Of Vacancy Caused By Manheim Resigning

Last night's scheduled "special meeting" between East Stroudsburg Council and the borough sewer authority wound up as an executive session, closed to the public.

Revised reason for the meeting, as described by Borough Solicitor Charles R. Bensinger Jr.: To "discuss informally" a man to fill the post left vacant by the recent resignation of Rudolph E. Manheim.

Manheim, an East Stroudsburg store owner, said last night that the press of business and personal affairs made him feel he was not at present able to do justice to the job.

Remaining authority members include B. K. Williams, chairman, Dr. R. Frederick Jones, Carl Secor and Horace Walters.

The "special meeting" originally scheduled for last night has been postponed, Bensinger said, until next month. At that meeting a report will be made on results of the authority's investigation, he said.

It is estimated that diamond-back rattlesnakes are responsible for about a third of the snakebites injurious to human beings in the United States.

You—the Destroyer?

Maybe you did this...

You were riding across a typical Pennsylvania landscape in an auto. Thoughtlessly you tossed out of the window a still-glowing match. Or was it a cigarette that hadn't been thoroughly ground out in the ash tray?

Anyway, a few dry leaves beside the road were ignited. The fire spread, gradually, to a nearby woods. Its progress was slow at first, but eventually flames roared up into tree-tops, smoke billowed skyward, and a real conflagration was under way.

As the flames advanced, trees that would have built many homes were destroyed. Wild creatures fled in terror, or perished in agony.

When the fire burned itself out, or was extinguished by men who risked their lives in the effort, it left a blackened, dead area. It would take Nature half a century, at least, to bring the area back to the state it was in when you dropped that match, or cigarette.

Meanwhile, the unprotected soil would wash away, adding silt to nearby streams, and leaving a barren and gullied place that would do its bit toward future floods.

You say it's silly to claim that you might have caused such a holocaust. How do you know you didn't, if you ever have smoked in a car while driving through the country, and haven't trained yourself to use the ash tray to dispose of all matches, cigarettes, cigars and pipe tobacco?

Few of us can be sure that we didn't start one or more of the 164,000 forest fires recorded in the United States last year. In addition to smoking materials, many blazes are started by camp fires that haven't been thoroughly extinguished, by carelessness in burning brush, by machinery, and so on.

Only two classes of persons can be sure they didn't contribute to the burning of ten million acres of forest land last year. They are persons who didn't get outside of cities and towns; and persons who never take a chance with fire in the woods and fields.

The fire menace should be kept constantly in mind, along with the traffic menace, while vacationing or week-ending. This is especially important in Pennsylvania, where more than half the land still is covered with forest.

Don't contribute anything to changing Penn's Woods to Penn's Desert.

Friend of Motorists

In these days when too many of our citizens, particularly those involved in the administration of our government at Washington, take apparent delight in spending our money faster than we can pay it in taxes, it is pleasant to read about a man whose life has been devoted to saving us some dollars.

Not a few dollars, either, for Dr. George Oenslager, of Akron, O., is credited with saving the motorists of his native land about 1½ billions of dollars through his successful research in the chemistry of tire-making.

Representative of a well known Pennsylvania family, Dr. Oenslager has been responsible for some of the most amazing developments in the world of rubber, and his awards and decorations for these achievements are considerable.

So the Pennsylvanian who has contributed so much to the welfare of all of us who buy automobile or truck tires is one we can salute as friend. He saves us money, which is quite a different approach to economics than that of the Washington wasters.

Theodore Roosevelt, youngest President of the United States to assume office, was 42 years old at the time of his succession.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington — President Truman consistently curses Republicans as "loot of Wall Street," but he is strangely silent about his own and the riches of his hand-picked candidate for the presidency, Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Wall Street, of course, has been the life-long target of our domestic Communists and Mr. Truman's allusions to the GOP in this respect have not been displeasing to the Reds. Neither have most of the President's appointments.

The President is always yelping about how nice it would be if all public officials barred their entire financial holdings, but so far his own income tax returns remain tucked away safely in a White House vault. Why doesn't he come clean? He is obviously a wealthy man and the beneficiary of a political slush fund that dwarfs the $18,000 used by friends of Senator Richard Nixon to help pay his office expenses.

Mr. Truman fleeced a few hundred investors in his home state of Missouri, back in 1919, on a phony oil stock deal. I've chided him now and again to come clean on this dry gulching of gullible home town investors, but he refuses to talk about this, too.

When I investigated the oil stock shelling he gave his friends, many of them wanted to know why the President didn't make good now that he is rich. It was a good question then and it still is.

I've heard all of the tear-jerkers about how Mr. Truman worked and slaved as a Senator to pay off all of his debts; he had to do without a maid in Washington so that he could clean up his obligations. Sliced up in any direction, the stories are pure baloney. By any standards, Mr. Truman has never been poor. He has always lived above the average and always had the cash necessary for all-night poker sessions in Missouri and Washington, D. C.

Out in Missouri right now there are a number of aged and indigent investors in the Truman oil stock fleecing who could use the cash they invested at one time in his operation. Some of them even bought it on the installment plan at $5 a month. It seems to me, now that the President is wealthy, he could easily repay those who bit on the sucker bait. After all, he only nicked his friends and relatives for a total of $60, 000 in the phony oil stock deal. He gets almost that much in a tax-free expense account annually, forked over by us taxpayers.

Gov. Stevenson has revealed his holdings and the extent of his political payoff fund, including donations from two witnesses who were reluctant orators when they appeared before the Kefauver crime investigating committee. One of the Stevenson fund donors was a playmate of Bugs Siegel, until the latter was punctured with slugs from a gangland gun; another couldn't explain to the Senators how he managed to accumulate $100,000 in cash out of which he made a $25,000 personal donation to the Democratic party's Presidential nominee.

Stevenson has confessed that he is a Wall Street plunger who takes his money in and out of the market as though it were a Yo-Yo. Mr. Truman hasn't criticized him for messing around with the Republicans who he claims do the same things to the detriment of the country.

Stevenson's net worth is estimated at $750,000 in stock and bond holdings. There is nothing of the barefoot boy of Wall Street about the Governor. In 1951 he owned 28 different common stocks. He has speculated in oil and gas wells, South American gold and platinum, and Publishing Company stock. It is not known if he ever invested in Mr. Truman's mythical oil holdings.

So far as can be determined the Governor never lost money on an investment. He has holdings in Admiral Corporation, Aluminum Company of America, Grumman Aircraft, Hilton Hotels, Industrial Rayon, Standard Oil of New Jersey and, in 1950, picked up some quick change in Columbia Broadcasting System stock. He also dabbles in retail clothing store stock and government securities.

But the President reserves his insults for Republicans. It seems a little one-sided. Come to think of it, so do the Communists. They haven't once jumped Mr. Truman's candidate for the Presidency, whose stock market manipulations make pickers out of most Republicans I know. I can't understand why the Communist Daily Worker is so silent on the subject. After all, Truman and Stevenson are rich men, and as such are prime targets of the Reds. Gen. Eisenhower is wealthy, too, and has been sand-bagged repeatedly by the Daily Worker as a Wall Street tool.

Peculiar, isn't it?

The game of dice is older than recorded history.

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

Quebec, Canada — The easiest way to see Montgomery Clift, if you are a pig-tailed beauty of 14 or 15 who just can't stand it because Monty is so handsome, is to walk along Lexington avenue in the Sixties in Manhattan any night around twilight. Mr. Clift, a radical departure from Movie Stars, can be observed striding along the street with a bag of groceries in his arms, headed for his walk-up apartment and a quiet dinner at home. Hollywoodians meditate on this and decide Mr. Clift is nuts, which gives you a pretty good idea of Hollywoodians.

That was the way I last saw Monty; today I caught up with him in the shadow of the ferry house below the Chateau Frontenac, where he was standing around in a priest's cassock, nervously smoking a cigarette and listening respectfully while Alfred Hitchcock explained how they would shoot such-and-such a scene. If the sun would only come out from behind the clouds, Mr. Hitchcock is here directing his latest movie, I confess, and a long-range view of the production-director, story, cast—makes one want to invest money in it. It looks like a good one.

Clift has been, to me, an interesting person ever since I met him in Twenty-One, a year or two ago. Likely he is the handsomest of Hollywood's stars, wearing possibly Tyrone Power, and certainly he is one of the most talented.

Despite all this going for him, he certainly seems to have fought off all temptation to go Hollywood. Maybe it is because he comes from a well-off family; maybe it is because of enormous confidence in his acting ability. Whatever it is, he appears to have no desire to impress people with his swimming pool, his bank account or his prowess with women. In an abnormal world, he seems startlingly sane.

Clift is a polite man, and when I asked him what he thought of Hitchcock—this is the first time he ever worked with the celebrated English director of thrillers—he said he had great admiration and liking for the rotund little man... adding a little wistfully that Hitch made the camera the star of any movie he directed.

This is true, because Hitchcock more than any other director uses this medium, but later I talked with others in the I Confess cast and they were more melancholy than Clift. It's tough for an actor to take second-place to a lens. The melancholia was professional; personally, they all love Hitchcock.

The sun never did come out for the ferry scene but I did get a chance to see Hitchcock direct another scene, at the lovely old St. Zephirin-de-Stadacona church. He was directing O. E. Hasse, a fine German actor, and with quiet pride he was directing Hasse in German. Later somebody asked Hasse just how good Hitch's German was, and he shrugged and said with a smile "I understand him." Then he pondered and added, his eye twinkling, "But I understand his English better."

Also on hand is Karl Malden, who was such an eight-star sensation in Streetcar, and Karl is a kind of blood-brother to Clift, only not so pretty. They have been talking theater incessantly since they came up here weeks ago, and it's amusing to watch them yacking away about the business while oblivious to anyone around them.

Amusing an delightful. These are men who take their trade seriously and are constantly working to become better. There are too few such souls in this world today. This tempest-tossed world

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Here is a new kind of a hold up.

A man rushed into a Broadway blouse factory, brandisher a 45-caliber revolver at the owner and shouted, "Sit down!" The owner obeyed and the man, still holding the revolver at his head, shouted:

"I want you to donate my wife immediately."

"You promoted her recently and gave her $9 a week more salary."

"Before you did, she was a good wife, a nice wife, a wife a man could get along with. Now she is impossible!"

"The promotion has gone to her head. She's got so conceited there's no living with her any longer."

"Denote her to her old position or I'll blow your head off."

Fortunately the people in the shop had heard the commotion. They called a policeman who took the fellow to the station and booked him on a charge of violating the Sullivan law against carrying concealed weapons.

Nothing much could have happened, anyway. The police found that the pistol was not loaded.

You probably know of a number of cases in your own experience where a promotion or a slight increase in one's status has gone to his or her head.

Almost anybody who has ever worked remembers some heretofore darn nice guy or gal who became impossible as soon as the boss had promoted him or her to be a "straw" boss.

One of the most virulent examples of that sort of thing is when a fellow gets promoted to "vice president," which is often you might say.

There is lunch at the Chateau with Miss Anne Baxter, the blond Hollywoodian who has the female lead, and later there is a quick exploration of the Plains of Abraham, the ancient city walls and other aspects of this handsomest of French-English cities. This is a town that reminds you of Paris and you wonder why, as you walk around—until you sniff the air, garlic and horses. Paris, too, smells of garlic and horses. In spite of it, the French retain one of the world's charmingest

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Who Surrendered To Whom? It would be an advantage in any political campaign if the ad hominem argument were discarded. The use of it generally makes candidates sound like noisy fishwives and adds nothing to the enlightenment of the people. The present campaign has regressed itself to a slugging match over personalities.

One of the arguments that I see used constantly is that General Eisenhower surrendered to Senator Taft. This involves an assumption that Senator Taft was either an ideological or a personal enemy of General Eisenhower. Actually, the most that can be said is that Taft is a Republican, leader of his party in the United States Senate, and a contender for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. His party regularity has never been in doubt.

At no time has Senator Taft denied General Eisenhower's right to be a candidate. If a personal schism developed, it was over the conduct of Governor Dewey, not over the conduct of General Eisenhower. Yet, knowing Senator Taft intimately, I would say that were Tom Dewey a candidate for President, Taft would be on his team because he firmly believes in the two party system and recognizes that a party cannot be subject, in a free society, to dictation by an individual but is a meeting of the minds on general principles, with a recognition of differences in approach and methods to be employed.

It is customary for a contender who failed to wait for the successful nominee to invite his active support. This is done in both parties. The only difference in 1952 was that Eisenhower had never been in politics before and had less contact than is usual with the active leaders of the party. He had been a soldier and in recent years had been engaged in war and preparation for war outside the country.

Therefore, Senator Taft desired, if Eisenhower was willing, to discuss party affairs, personalities, relations and past performances. This was done at the famous conference at Morningside Drive in New York.

At that moment, a schism existed in the Republican Party arising from causes that go back to 1932. That schism had been continuous since 1932 and each year became more intense. It was not a fight over fundamental principles, except the degree of American intervention in European affairs. It largely arose out of defeat and was stimulated by continued defeat. Involved also was a growing repugnance within the Republican Party for the continued and increasing domination by New York, its bankers, its industrialists and its so-called intellectuals connected with national magazines.

With much of this, General Eisenhower was vaguely familiar. He was nominated because of his record in the American Army at war, not because of his record as a Republican politician. Taft, as is his habit, puts his ideas on paper; maybe, it is a habit arising from Yankee thrift. That document was not an ultimatum to Eisenhower; Taft had already agreed to active participation in the campaign and part of his speaking schedule had already been arranged and announced by the Republican National Committee. It was a statement of Taft's own position which Eisenhower could have rejected in whole or in part.

Eisenhower, recognizing that the American way is no dictation but a meeting of the minds where agreement is possible, while maintaining the full right to a free conscience and independence of thought where differences are fundamental, agreed with Taft in principle.

The points of agreement and disagreement were made public. The result of this has been that a schism in the Republican Party, which has lasted 20 years, was healed with the exception of the position taken by Senator Wayne Morse.

If the United States is not to become a political anarchy, the two party system must be continued. Had the schism not been healed, the Republican Party would have broken into splinters. While this would have assured a Democratic victory, it would also have had a like effect in the Democratic Party and would have produced bias in the Senate. We might have had a Senate that resembled the French Chamber of Deputies.

Actually nobody surrendered to anybody. But two gentlemen, serving on a team of their own choice, seeking victory for their team, worked out mutual problems on a basis of the broadcast interests without a sacrifice of conscience. That is the American way.

Try And Stop Me

Dr. Eddie Anderson liked to tell his University of Iowa football team that many a game is won or lost, not by overpunctuated backfield men, but by the tackles. In the midst of one of his orations, Anderson noticed that a member of the squad had fallen sound asleep. He clapped him on the back and roared, "Quick, Jim! Where are most big games lost?" The boy stammered guiltily, "I guess right here at Iowa, coach!"

A rancher in Fairfield, Calif., was known as the best shot in the country. When he was arrested for trying to hire a couple of professional gunmen, therefore, to shoot his wife and enable him to cash her $10,000 life insurance policy, the community registered distinct surprise. The rancher's explanation revealed the tender side of his nature: "I loved her so deeply I simply couldn't bear to shoot her myself."

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—"My Wife's Best Friend," publicized as a gay romantic comedy, is just fairly gay and occasionally comic. It labors—hard—with the problem of the woman whose husband has apparently proved unfaithful. In this case she (Anne Baxter) goes mildly nuts.

At first she is furious. Then her father, a pastor (Cecil Kellaway) counsels forgiveness. Anne thereupon smoothes her husband (Macdonald Carey) with forgiveness and nobility.

Mac, who keeps insisting he is really innocent, says all he wants is a sweet housewife helpmate. So Anne becomes such an abject drudge that she louses up a million-dollar deal for her husband when he invites Leif Erikson into their home. Anne next tries being a siren like Cleopatra. She progresses into a fling with Erickson—when Carey decides it's time to leave home.

The performers do remarkably well by their rather heavy-handed material. Carey, as the husband, ranges agreeably from patience to exasperation. Catherine MacLeon is pleasing as the family friend with whom the husband supposedly had the affair. Kellaway is amusing as the sprightly and philosophical clergyman. Newcomer Casey Adams registers solidly in the routine role of family friend and lawyer.

But it's Miss Baxter's picture. "I wear a size 18 but I can squeeze into a 16—so show me a size 12."

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

The G. I. And U. N. Why should anybody be puzzled over what's wrong with the United Nations? Why should we wonder that it gropes and fumbles? The answer is simple: there is no mud, no snow, no ice in the General Assembly.

... there is no situation which requires that every diplomat live on K-rations and do hand-to-hand fighting in the dark. We were talking this over with a G. I. and to him it seemed so clear... "Look at them guys," he said, "They're not bleeding! ... Not a delegate has been taken out by litter or helicopter! ... There ain't a frozen foot in the bunch! ... They sleep in beds, not puddles! ... They eat three squares a day and don't get rice pudding on top of the beef stew! ... The only U. N. delegate I saw with his head swathed in bandages got it in an argument with a waiter over the thickness of his filet mignon!"

The G. I., a Korean vet, seemed to size up the indecision, procrastination, the slow motion and the general anarchy within U. N. ... "They got a new million dollar assembly hall and they put in everything except what is needed to bring the diplomats to a sense of responsibility: mountains, winding paths up rocky hillsides and muck, muck, muck!" he continued. "The whole set-up on the East River is wrong ... The buildings are too beautiful, the accommodations too deluxe, the comforts too many ... A guy can't suffer there if he wants to! ... If by any chance he gets bored or weary he can find a nice bar very handy ... The restaurant service is good ... The one impression I get from a session of these U. N. cooking is that nobody is going to die for anything, volunteer for action beyond the call of duty or need blood plasma."

"I dropped in and watched the biggies perform the other day ... They got in and out of action without even their feet hurting! ... Nobody seemed to be looking for a chaplain ... The nearest thing to the sound of gunfire came from the backfire of taxicabs and an occasional stomach rumble from delegates who had taken three hours for lunch ... I didn't see a delegate with wet feet or ice on his whiskers ... Not a diplomat was begging for water ... Everybody present looked in the pink, cozy, happy and in no need of inoculations ... They hadn't slept outdoors in years ... They thought 'Old Baldy' was a reference to a European premier and that 'Heartbreak Ridge' was the name of a night club ... No frozen limbs, just frozen faces, frozen resolutions and frozen impulses ... I'll bet it's been years since any member of U. N. slept with his head on a rock."

"What would you suggest to bring firmer action from U. N.?" we asked.

"Longer hours, less time for lunch and a new rule requiring that all speeches be made outdoors in an icy gale," said the G. I. "You will not get nuthin from these diplomats 'til they get up mornings in response to a bugle."

Seeing "The Fourposter" for the second time we still think Jan de Hartog has done the finest writing visible in this season's theater. ... It's a play about everybody done by only two people and it is a thing of rare beauty ... What we want to know is how those lads who ignore 40 parking tickets got away with it for so many months ... When we mislay one the cops are at the door in 48 hours ...

Well, that's about all there is to the plot, which is stretched to a sometimes tedious hour and 40 minutes. The two zanies antics pay off at the box-office though, in case you ever wondered. A spokesman for their boss, Producer Hal Wallis, estimates the U. S. gross from their six previous movies at nearly 24 million dollars.

Snow Brings Relief To Fire Watchers

Yesterday's wet snowfall, light in the southern section of Monroe County and heavier in the northern regions, brought temporary relief to volunteer fire watchers who have been scanning the horizon for the past two weeks, on the alert for forest fires.

From the office of E. C. Pyle, district forester, came word that while the wet snow has saturated top leaves, the greatest damage still could come once the sun's rays strike, drying the moistened foliage. Lack of rain in the past few weeks has left underground exceptionally dry, it was explained.

In Monroe County the volunteer firefighters, listed by Pyle's office, include Robert Altomose, C. L. Altomose, Eugene Greensweig, Ira Knorr, Frank Keiper, George E. Kitcher, Floyd S. Moyer, Ralph Snyder and Clarence Bonser, in the West End.

Volunteers in the eastern section of the county are Robert Bates, Paul DePue, R. M. Frantz, Harold Heydt, Mahlon Hallett, Ralph Hay, Charles B. Kimmel, Millard Price, Claude Quick, Marshall Reese, Arthur Rinker, Russell Shellenberger, Frank Smith, John W. Smith, John Styk, Ralph L. Miller and Albert Shafer.

Monroe County's fire towers are at Long Pond, Tannersville, Snow Hill and Delaware Water Gap.

Lutherans Attend District Workshop

Twenty-five members of the Vestry, Church School and organizations with the pastor, Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson attended the Fall District Conference Workshop of the Allentown Conference on Monday night at Muhlenberg College. The devotional period began with a message on "The Word and the Individual" by Rev. Dr. Henry H. Bagger, new president of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia.

After the service the group was divided into sections concerning the work of the church as carried out by the men and vestry, the women of the church, the church school workers, the youth and the pastors. Each was presided over by specialists in the several fields. Another session was held Tuesday night in Easton for the church workers of that area of the conference.

FOSTER FATHERS

LOVE of American GIs for children of other lands is well known, but if anyone doubts that, just ask the kids at the orphanage in Gmunden, Austria. They have foster dads who are serving with B battery of the 11th Anti-Aircraft Artillery battalion. Stationed with the U. S. Forces in Austria (USFA), these soldiers adopted the young orphans and contribute materially to their needs. They spent their afternoon off recently to entertain the kids with toys, candy, turkey dinner complete with ice cream, topped off with a German movie and a visit to scenic Schloss Helbrunn, the castle that's one of the showplaces of Salzburg. When trip ended, soldiers gave the Mother Superior who came with them a gift of money. It was hard to say who had the better time—the 47 kids or foster dads.

Police Seek Boy In Death Of Parents

A 16-year-old boy is being sought by State police in this section for questioning in the death of his parents at their Kearny, N. J., home last Thursday.

A flier sent to state police by New Jersey authorities ordered the apprehension of Claus J. Eichen who, the information stated, may be armed, and instructed police to exert caution when detaining.

Kearney police said last night the boy's parents, Hans, 52, a chemist, and Clara, 51, were found dead in twin beds at their home, their bodies wrapped in bedclothes and badly decomposed. Cause of death was not immediately known but an autopsy was ordered yesterday afternoon after the identities were revealed by a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Shultz, of Olyphant, Pa., who went to Kearny early yesterday morning and identified her parents.

The hunted youth was described as five feet ten inches, weighing 170 pounds, has chestnut hair, fair complexion and wears black rim glasses. It was learned he was driving a 1932 blue Plymouth sedan, New Jersey license 1 over J, 49-H.

Police in the New Jersey city said yesterday they definitely have established the boy was in the house until 7:30 p.m. Friday when he talked to a schoolmate by telephone. Time of the parents' deaths was not established, but police said they died sometime late Thursday or early Friday.

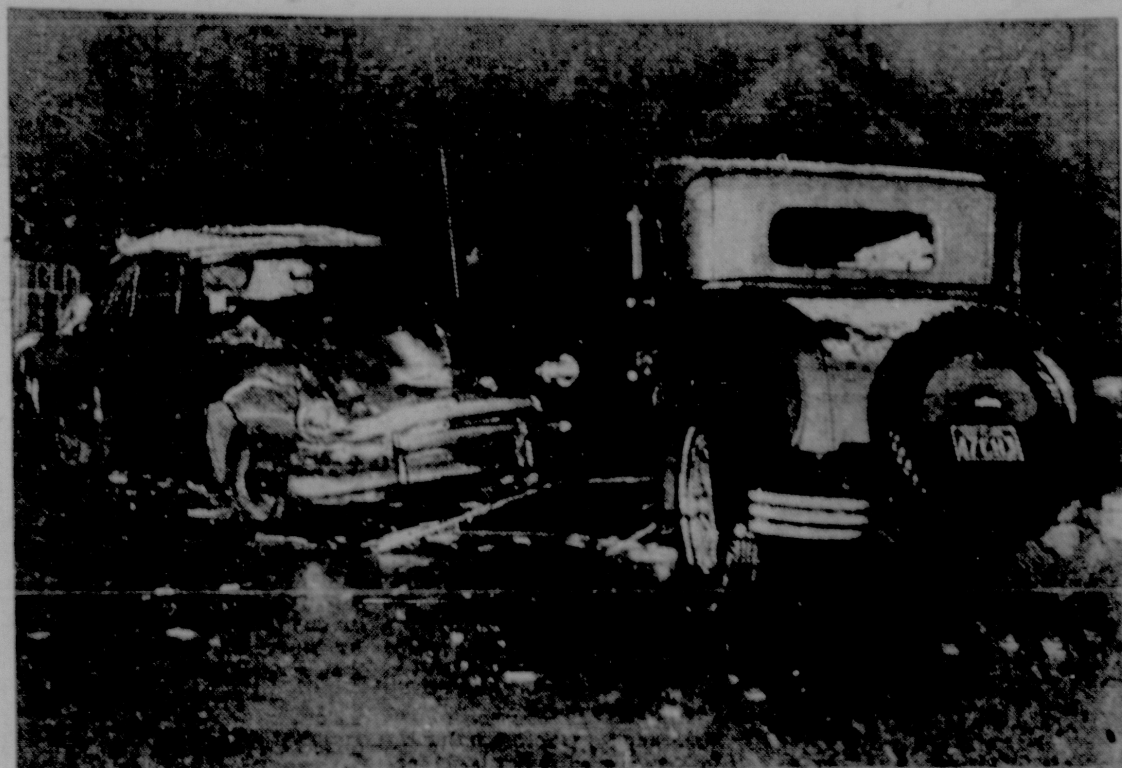

Rooms in the home were ransacked, drawers flung open and the room temperature was set at 72 degrees, police said, accounting for the decomposition. Mr. Eichen underwent an operation several weeks ago, police said, and was convalescing at his home.

The Eischens have another son, Hans Jr., stationed in Norfolk, Va., with the U. S. Navy.

Functional Duty Closet Planned

The old-fashioned, general-purpose storage closet has lost out in the modern home. Closets are now planned and organized to perform special storage functions, such as providing space for bridge tables, ironing boards, vacuum cleaners, step ladders and kitchen aprons. In bedrooms, fitted wardrobes with sliding doors save space and turn the old-time closet into a functional, easy-to-use part of the room.

The handy kitchen counter with drawers or shelves in the lower part, is also moving into the bedroom as functional equipment.

Jean Eshback Slightly Hurt In Collision Of Two Cars

Jean Eshback, Bushkill, young Monroe County court stenographer, was injured in a two-car collision at 5:20 p.m. yesterday at Eagle Valley Corners.

East Stroudsburg police said Miss Eshback was driving north. She was evidently on her way home from the court house.

At the time of the accident, John Meixell, 20, of 1047 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg, had just let off a passenger at Miller's Grocery, police said. He started his car across the highway to make a turn, planning to return the way he had come, according to police. The collision followed.

Miss Eshback suffered a knee bruise. She was taken to the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, and released after treatment.

SIX EXTRA HOURS

On the go? Have a Coke

When you're going at a fast clip, a little minute's all you've got to spare. Pause for an ice-cold Coke ...and go refreshed.

At this time of the year, there are about six extra hours of darkness or half-light—six hours in which a pedestrian must be extra cautious lest he be injured or killed on street or highway.

Late Autumn ... Winter ... early Spring ... these are the seasons when you, as a pedestrian, must live up to every rule of traffic safety. Early morning hours are apt to be hazy ... the hours of dusk reduce visibility for the motorist, often quite seriously. So take extra precautions for your own safety.

Don't cross streets against traffic lights ... don't jay-walk ... never step into the road from between parked cars. When it is necessary to walk on the highway, walk facing traffic, and at night, use a flashlight to make sure you can be seen.

And by actual instruction and your own good example, teach your children to be careful. They are pedestrians, too ... mighty precious pedestrians.

Make every hour count for happy living.

This message in the interest of highway safety is one of a series prepared and disseminated by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

Just Between Us
—By Bobby Westbrook

So now we draw in our heads like turtles, but fortunately the cold snap came in time to let mothers decide how many sweaters Junior will have to wear under his clown suit, and that Sister really had better be Minnie Mouse than a ballet dancer in the Halloween parade this year.

Householders confronted by small handits for "tricks or treats" were not quite so bewildered by the costumes last night—not with that familiar coat on top that they've seen going past to school each chilly morning.

In town, though, it was just cold and damp. On the hilltop it was cold and beautiful with the snow clinging to the branches, and festooning the grape arbor, and a frosty moon to top it off.

Meetings went on as usual, though the Presbyterian Women had their choice of walking over lumber or through mud on their side door entrance. With the newly decorated sanctuary due to be opened this Sunday all the repairs are speeding up.

The women's Guild of the Grace Lutheran Church had 42 out—and to work moreover.

And it may be a sign of the Halloween season, but the Girl Scouts on a scavenger hunt last night had the most trouble finding arithmetic books! I hope their teachers go to school before they read the paper this morning.

Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:15 a.m.

Recess Milk, Books, Games PTA Goal

Delaware Water Gap — The PTA meeting at the school house Monday night brought together a group of young mothers intent on aiding the school work in every possible way. Mrs. Fred Shoemaker presided.

The members decided to sponsor a motion picture show in the near future and Mrs. Francis Drake was re-appointed chairman to make arrangements for this. James Anthony was requested to confer with the firm from which the school picture projector was purchased to have any necessary repairs made.

The third Monday of each month was chosen as the regular meeting night of the PTA group. A Halloween Party will be given at the school Friday at 1 p.m. Mrs. Delbert Davis, Mrs. Harold Lightner, and Mrs. Richard Carlton are the committee to prepare for it.

The new project for the PTA will be the purchase of some good library books for the school children to enjoy. To raise money for this a bake sale will be held in November. Mrs. Richard Carlton, Mrs. Henry Kuip and Mrs. Walter Decker will have charge.

After much pro and con discussion, it was decided that the teachers—Mrs. Paul W. Morton, Mrs. L. Marshall, and Clair Schaffer, will initiate the selling of milk at recess to all those children whose parents wish them to have it. The majority of the mothers stated that this would enable small children to do much better work all morning.

Mr. Schaeffer also spoke about the equipment for the playground and was promised a volley ball and a game for rainy day use. Mrs. Earl Carlton and Mrs. Richard Carlton will be the hostesses at the next meeting November 17.

There will be a speaker at that meeting to tell about the PTA County Council. Mayor Forrest Smith and James Anthony were among those present.

THE LATEST IN MICROFILMING photo-duplicating machines was set up by a factory man yesterday afternoon in the office of Recorder Floyd Butz at the courthouse. The machine has been installed on a three-month trial basis. It will be operated by Mrs. James Brands (above), recorder's clerk, who is placing an original property deed in position to be copied. Up to the present, all such voluminous copying work has been done manually on typewriters. This required much time for both typewriting and proof-reading for error. Machine makes copying instantaneous and accurate. (Daily Record photo)

Three Incumbents To Lose Congressional Seats As Result Of Reapportionment

Harrisburg, Pa.—The first election under Pennsylvania's new congressional reapportionment law will cost at least three incumbents their seats.

Issues in the presidential campaign dominate the congressional races throughout the state. Next Tuesday's voting in the presidential fight is likely to determine for the most part the winners in local districts.

A possible exception may be Rep. Daniel J. Flood in the 11th district which comprises Luzerne County, home county of Gov. John S. Fine.

Flood is a Democrat who time after time has been able to swing a sizeable block of Republican votes to his column. His GOP opponent in Mayor Edward J. Bonin of Hazleton.

The 1951 legislature was forced by population changes uncovered by the 1950 census to reduce Pennsylvania's congressional delegation from 33 to 30. The present margin in the delegation is 20 Republicans and 13 Democrats.

One of the most interesting battles is expected in the 10th district between two incumbents—Democratic Harry P. O'Neill, Scranton, and Republican Joseph L. Carrigg, Susquehanna.

O'Neill's previous district was Lackawanna County and a big Democratic registration there had been enough to elect him to two terms.

The reapportionment law, however, tacked on four Republican dominated counties—Wyoming, Sullivan, Susquehanna and Wayne—onto the Lackawanna district.

Registration figures in the five-county district now are just about even. Totals are 99,224 Republicans and 99,204 Democrats.

In the 10th district, where Democratic Incumbent James F. Lind enjoyed a slight edge, Republicans now have a registration advantage of 85,144 to 73,962 for the Democrats. Lind's opponent in the new district—York, Adams and Cumberland—is S. Walter Stauffer.

Incumbents are fighting each other in the 25th and 28th districts. Republican Edward L. Sittler Jr., Uniontown, is expected to have an uphill battle against Democrat Thomas E. Morgan in the 25th district which now embraces the Democratic-dominated counties of Greene, Fayette and Washington.

In the 28th district, a part of Allegheny County, Democrat Herman P. Eberhart is viewed as having an edge over Harman D. Denny, Republican.

Because no flue or vent is needed, the electric water heater can be installed close to the equipment which it serves. This means greater efficiency and lower operating cost because short pipe lines cut hot water costs—no waiting for large amounts of cold water to be drained from pipes (as in long runs) before getting hot water.

This family is always in hot water

"In my mother's day, Judy, they had to heat water on the stove—even for a bath. Then came water heaters you had to light. Now our Electric water heater gives us hot water just as easily as we get cold water—by turning a faucet. It's completely automatic. We never even have to think about it. Can you imagine what we'd do without it?"

"I can't, Mom—and I can't imagine having to heat water when I need it!"

"Judy, you don't know what automatic hot water really is until you have an Electric water heater! It's so dependable."

DID YOU KNOW with an electric water heater you can:

Make installation anywhere...no flue nor vent needed...it burns no fuel...it is entirely enclosed and cool to the touch...enjoy clean operation because there is nothing to create dirt...it's electric...have all the hot water you need, as hot as you need it, day or night without attention.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

So now we draw in our heads like turtles, but fortunately the cold snap came in time to let mothers decide how many sweaters Junior will have to wear under his clown suit, and that Sister really had better be Minnie Mouse than a ballet dancer in the Halloween parade this year.

Householders confronted by small bandits for "tricks or treats" were not quite so bewildered by the costumes last night—not with that familiar coat on top that they've seen going past to school each chilly morning.

In town, though, it was just cold and damp. On the hilltop it was cold and beautiful with the snow clinging to the branches, and festooning the grape arbor, and a frosty moon to top it off.

Meetings went on as usual, though the Presbyterian Women had their choice of walking over lumber or through mud on their side door entrance. With the newly decorated sanctuary due to be opened this Sunday all the repairs are speeding up.

The woman's Guild of the Grace Lutheran Church had 42 out—and to work moreover.

And it may be a sign of the Halloween season, but the Girl Scouts on a scavenger hunt last night had the most trouble finding arithmetic books! I hope their teachers go to school before they read the paper this morning.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:15 a.m.

Recess Milk, Books, Games PTA Goal

Delaware Water Gap — The PTA meeting at the school house Monday night brought together a group of young mothers intent on aiding the school work in every possible way. Mrs. Fred Shoemaker presided.

The members decided to sponsor a motion picture show in the near future and Mrs. Francis Drake was re-appointed chairman to make arrangements for this. James Anthony was requested to confer with the firm from which the school picture projector was purchased to have any necessary repairs made.

The third Monday of each month was chosen as the regular meeting night of the PTA group. A Halloween Party will be given at the school Friday at 1 p.m. Mrs. Delbert Davis, Mrs. Harold Lightner and Mrs. Richard Carlton are the committee to prepare for it.

The new project for the PTA will be the purchase of some good library books for the school children to enjoy. To raise money for this a bake sale will be held in November. Mrs. Richard Carlton, Mrs. Henry Kulp and Mrs. Walter Decker will have charge. After much pro and con discussion, it was decided that the teachers—Mrs. Paul W. Morton, Mrs. L. Marshall, and Clair Schaffer, will initiate the selling of milk at recess to all those children whose parents wish them to have it. The majority of the mothers stated that this would enable small children to do much better work all morning.

Mr. Schaffer also spoke about the equipment for the playground and was promised a volley ball and a game for rainy day use. Mrs. Earl Carlton and Mrs. Richard Carlton will be the hostesses at the next meeting November 17.

There will be a speaker at that meeting to tell about the PTA County Council. Mayor Forrest Smith and James Anthony were among those present.

Anna Logans Fruit Cakes On Order

Orders for the holiday fruit cake which the Anna Logan Society of the General Hospital bakes every year for the benefit of the hospital, are already beginning to come in. All orders for the fruit cake must be in by the November meeting on Monday, November 10.

At that time, members will bring their scissors and sharp knives to cut up the ingredients for the fruit cake, and the committee plans to begin baking at once.

No orders will be accepted after that night because annually the demand is greater than the supply. Orders may be telephoned in any morning to Mrs. Joseph Kushner, or any afternoon to Mrs. Eva Brodsky.

Bartonville Community Party Friday

Bartonville — The Crusader Class of St. John's Lutheran Church is sponsoring its Annual Community Halloween party at the Parish House in Bartonville Friday, October 31, at 8:00 p.m.

Various committees are working to make the party successful. Haviland Heller is in charge of refreshments. Mrs. Beatrice Swink and Mrs. Russell Bond are lining up prizes for the prettiest, funniest, ugliest, and most original costumes among both children and adults in addition to a door prize. Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, and Miss Emma Dunbar are lending their artistic talents to the decorations.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend, but it is stressed that there will be an admission penalty of twenty-five cents for anyone who appears without a costume or at least a mask. This is an event well known in the community and eagerly anticipated each year by all.

There will be no October business meeting of the Crusader Class on account of the party, which occurs at regular meeting time.

Legion Penny Supper

The American Legion Auxiliary is planning to hold a penny supper on Thursday night at the Legion Home. Serving will be from 5 to 7 p.m. and the public is invited.

So far as I could determine yesterday, Holt Wyckoff was the only one of us who could look out at the shiny black ribbon that was Main street, and the sorry looking snowflakes that were almost raindrops, and still SMILE. That's the difference between an optimist and a sour puss. One looked out and saw visions of Christmas — carols in the crisp night air, holly amid the red bows of mysterious parcels, mistletoe dangling mischievously from an archway. The other looked out and saw water, wet feet, sore throats and doctor bills. One has a grip on life; the other has a gripe with life. One letter spells a WAIL of a difference! . . . Stopping by the stationery department, I noticed that the entire Nasco line is in stock once again—and all of it looking ahead to 1953. There are diaries, Tel-Address, Day At a Glance, Memo to Me, Expense and Tax, and Duo-Dex books. All of them are bound with the sturdy spirals that permit them to open absolutely flat for easy scanning, and their price is nominal. I even discovered a Gag Line book—something I never even knew existed. It seems that there are quite a boon to the person who can always remember a joke—down to the punch line. Incidentally, if you keep a diary, it's a pretty good idea to buy it now. The first of January is MUCH too late—take that advice from one who has lost out two consecutive years before she learned her lesson . . . There have been nicer days than yesterday for being in New York or Hazleton. But our Wyckoff personnel members who made these trips in the interest of their work, probably found them highly profitable. Among those who did Christmas buying in the metropolis were Edith Pennington and Cora Albertson of lingerie, and Edna Harmon of jewelry, so keep your eyes on their departments! . . . The office was a shambles yesterday after Arthur Widmer and Walter Wyckoff (with some advice from Max Belov) took some advertising pictures of our Wyckoff merchandise. Watch the ads for glimpses of the adorable new handbags for little girls in Bea Georg's department (wonderful Christmas or birthday gifts), plastic seat cushions, prettily ruffled for kitchen chairs, and those boxes of X-Zit that we've been advocating for use in the fireplace to color the flames. Make a habit of reading our Wyckoff ads always—and then visiting the store to discover for yourself the hundreds of items "too numerous to mention" . . . You know what a voting machine is? It's the perfect answer to the "political machines" we tax payers are always growling about. Remember all signs point to the polls next Tuesday—and when you pull a lever on a voting machine YOU'RE in the driver's seat of our nation . . . Have you seen those stunning Hitchcock chairs in our arcade? With their beautiful stencils in antique gold, they'd be a precious addition to any home. The only hitch in the Hitchcock, as I see it, is one's inability to make a choice between the various, all-time lovely styles. The arm chairs are priced at $59.50; straight chairs at $35.50; and stools at $25 . . . I like that song "Steal Away". But now, creeping up on Christmas, my favorite theme is "Lay Away"—the easy method of buying gifts at Wyckoff's!

The machine has been installed on a three-month trial basis. It will be operated by Mrs. James Brands (above), recorder's clerk, who is placing an original property deed in position to be copied. Up to the present, all such voluminous copying work has been done manually on typewriters. This required much time for both typewriting and proof-reading for error. Machine makes copying instantaneous and accurate. (Daily Record photo)

Three Incumbents To Lose Congressional Seats As Result Of Reapportionment

Harrisburg, (P)—The first election under Pennsylvania's new congressional reapportionment law will cost at least three incumbents their seats.

Issues in the presidential campaign dominate the congressional races throughout the state. Next Tuesday's voting in the presidential light is likely to determine for the most part the winners in local districts.

A possible exception may be Rep. Daniel J. Flood in the 11th district which comprises Luzerne County, home county of Gov. John S. Fine.

Flood is a Democrat who time after time has been able to swing a sizeable block of Republican votes to his column. His GOP opponent in Mayor Edward J. Boin of Hazleton.

The 1951 legislature was forced by population changes uncovered by the 1950 census to reduce Pennsylvania's congressional delegation from 33 to 30. The present margin in the delegation is 29 Republicans and 13 Democrats.

One of the most interesting battles is expected in the 10th district between two incumbents—Democrat Harry P. O'Neill, Scranton, and Republican Joseph L. Carrigg, Susquehanna.

O'Neill's previous district was Lackawanna County and a big Democratic registration there had been enough to elect him to 160 terms.

The reapportionment law, however, tacked on four Republican dominated counties—Wyoming, Sullivan, Susquehanna and Wayne—onto the Lackawanna district.

Registration figures in the five-county district now are just about even. Totals are 99,224 Republicans and 99,204 Democrats.

In the 19th district, where Democratic incumbent James F. Lind enjoyed a slight edge, Republicans now have a registration advantage of 85,144 to 73,962 for the Democrats. Lind's opponent in the new district—York, Adams and Cumberland—is S. Walter Stauffer.

Incumbents are fighting each other in the 25th and 28th districts. Republican Edward L. Sittler Jr., Uniontown, is expected to have an uphill battle against Democrat Thomas E. Morgan in the 25th district which now embraces the Democratic-dominated counties of Greene, Fayette and Washington.

In the 28th district, a part of Allegheny County, Democrat Herman P. Eberhart is viewed as having an edge over Harman D. Denny, Republican.

Because no flue or vent is needed, the electric water heater can be installed close to the equipment which it serves. This means greater efficiency and lower operating cost because short pipe lines cut hot water costs—no waiting for large amounts of cold water to be drained from pipes (as in long runs) before getting hot water.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Officials or no officials, good decisions or bad, we must be reconciled to the fact that both the East Stroudsburg-Wilson Borough and the Stroudsburg-Whitehall games are now history and the final decisions reached on Saturday will stand for posterity, regardless of what occurs in future days, weeks, months and years. The stand taken by this column on Monday hasn't changed a bit, although the movies of Saturday's game taken by East Stroudsburg failed to show the interference play, as the camera ran out of film just after Wilson's initial touchdown.

However, I would like to devote today's column to officials of all high school sports and the connecting items which play important roles in the ruling of current popular sports. Officiating in my mind is one of the most serious occupations undertaken by man, especially when it concerns high school sports. In high school ranks the individual performer goes all out to win, even more so than in college, amateur or professional divisions of sports. Athletics are as much a part of the current school systems as reading, writing and "rhythmic," and benefits derived from sports can never be fully appreciated.

Enthusiasm is a major factor in high school athletics and that is why this column is continually harping for good officiating. A youngster playing the game of football for example, takes the sport much more seriously than do the spectators and most certainly the officials. The kids train from late in August to late November. They suffer bumps and bruises through the same length of time, not to mention the study required to learn plays and the work done on blackboards and films. It takes no drilling at all to be a spectator and very little to be an official.

True, the men in the striped shirts must know the rules, and this does take a certain amount of study. However, there are very few officials who take the time to do any physical training, in an effort to keep in good shape so as to be able to move rapidly enough to stay on top of the play, be it football, basketball or baseball. In addition, the veteran arbiters have very little study to do each year, as the rule changes are comparatively minor.

Knowing the rule book doesn't make a good official and neither does having a good background in athletics. It takes a combination of various knowledges, plenty of feeling and most of all common sense, and not just the ability to blow sweet notes on a whistle. If modern officials would stop to think of the emotional disturbance a wrong call, a hasty decision or an uncertain whistle causes in the average high school athlete, he would be a much better arbitrator. Instead, in my mind the average official is interested mainly in pleasing the coaches, so his rating at the end of the season will be good enough to work next year.

I personally looked for a marked improvement in officiating in both the Lehigh Valley and Lehigh-Northampton League this season, since each circuit had increased from three to four officials for each football game. However, the brand of officiating is for the most part poorer, despite the increase in numbers. I believe the added official in each game has made all officials relax their vigilance a little bit and when four officials aren't as alert as three were last year, it spells nothing but trouble. The schools pay good money for officiating and have the right to expect a good job from every man who takes the field with a striped shirt, white pants and a whistle.

This column has been seeking an age limit for officials in recent years, but I can see that two obstacles stand in the way of a young official making the varsity grade. First, it is my opinion that the older play callers, who are well established, rule the various chapters and in that manner keep the rookies out of the varsity lineup, while the established veterans shovel in all the paying varsity battles.

However, it is also apparent that many of the young officials don't want to start at the bottom of the heap. Many of the beginners want to launch their careers with varsity tussles, instead of junior varsity and junior high school games. The young officials must start at the bottom and begin immediately, if the present serious officiating problem isn't to become even worse. I am also convinced that the veteran officials have too much to say as to where and when they will work games.

We could go on for hours talking about officials and sports and the various problems arising from the combination. However, I believe that if the average official would use common sense and not a terrifically strict interpretation of the rule book, the brand of officiating would improve, especially if all concerned would demonstrate plenty of hustle.

Warriorettes Turn Lock Haven Into Third Straight Victim

Lock Haven—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College rolled to its third straight field hockey victory of the season yesterday, when the Warriorettes took the measure of Lock Haven, 4-1, on the losing contingent's home field. The ESSTC squad has yet to be defeated this season.

Mountain Loop Changes Date For Meeting

Bartonsville—The Pocono Mountains Baseball League will hold its regular monthly meeting here at the Bartonsville Hotel on Monday, November 10, and not Monday, November 17, as previously scheduled. It was announced by John Wernett, league secretary.

The change in dates was made because the circuit is slated to hold its annual banquet at the Bartonsville Hotel on Tuesday, November 18.

Notices have been sent out on the change, Wernett stated.

Wernett also stated that the deadline for selling tickets for the event has been set as Saturday, November 15.

Reports on ticket sales are to be forwarded to William Cassatt, owner of the Bartonsville Hotel, Wernett stated.

One item on the agenda for the next meeting is the appointment of a program committee for the banquet.

Both team and individual awards for the past campaign will be made at the banquet.

The outcome of yesterday's contest was never in doubt, as the charges of Coach Katherine Griffith ran up a 3-0 advantage at the end of the first half and were never threatened thereafter.

Scoring
Ethel Moyer, captain of the ESSTC team, opened the scoring for the visiting team early in the first half, but Nancy Noll, visiting left winger, was the big gun in the scoring column, as she drove home both the second and third goals of the game for the Warriorettes.

Grace Ashbery came through with a goal early in the second half to give the visiting contingent a 4-0 edge.

However, Lock Haven averted a shutout when Dorothy Stackhouse, center forward for the losing team, banged home a counter late in the contest.

Michigan State Continues To Lead Maryland

By Jack Hand

New York (AP)—Michigan State still leads but Maryland is a fast-closing second in the battle for number one football rating in the nation.

The 121 ballots of sportswriters and broadcasters in the Associated Press poll were well split between Coach "Biggie" Munn's Michigan State powerhouse and the brilliant Maryland team that has racked up six straight wins.

Michigan State clung to the number one spot for the third successive week by knocking off previously unbeaten Penn State, 34-7, Saturday for its fifth straight. That performance won 38 first place votes for the Spartans.

Easy Win

Maryland drew 32 firsts after bombing Louisiana State, 34-6.

The point race, based on 10 for a first place vote, nine for second and so on, is real tight with only 26 points separating the first two clubs, Michigan State has 1,042 points, Maryland 1,016.

Oklahoma, tied once but unbeaten in five starts, remains in third place with 20 firsts and 850 points after routing Kansas State, 49-6.

Georgia Tech, Southern California, Duke and UCLA follow closely bunched behind the first three. Then come three graduates from the lower ratings—Purdue, eighth; Kansas, ninth; and Villanova, 10th.

Purdue hopped from an unranked position all the way to eighth by smothering Illinois, 40-12. Now they get a chance at the giant killer role Saturday in their game with Michigan State.

Georgia Tech, 30-0 winner over Vanderbilt, meets Duke, 21-7 conquerors of previously unbeaten Virginia, in a top clash of rated teams. It will be number four vs. number six at Durham, N. C.

Open Date

Southern California, fresh from a "big" 10-0 win over California, has an open date but California, which fell from fourth to 11th, has a chance to regain prestige in its game with seventh-ranked UCLA, an upset 20-7 winner over Wisconsin.

The other top 10 teams don't seem to have too much trouble ahead Saturday. Maryland plays Boston University, Oklahoma faces Iowa State, Kansas takes on Kansas State and Villanova plays Paris Island Marines.

California, Virginia and Wisconsin were disseminated from top 10 quarters after Saturday's results. Purdue, Kansas 26-0 winners over Southern Methodist and Villanova hard pressed in a 34-20 victory over Xavier took their places.

Baker Earns Ring Verdict

Pittsburgh (AP)—Big Bob Baker, a Pittsburgh Negro heavyweight who has been sidelined nearly a year because of injuries to his right hand, lumbered his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Billy Gilliam of Orange, N. J., last night—and in so doing injured the hand.

Baker, weighing 229 pounds and boasting a 19-pound advantage, won the decision in a hard fought but slow battle. A crowd of 1,908 paid a gross of $14,750 and a net of $3,688.

Tough Foe

The Pittsburgh heavyweight had all he could handle in Gilliam and had to come from behind in the final five rounds. There wasn't a semblance of a knockdown. Gilliam was troubled from the second round on by a bleeding nose and Baker suffered a cut on top of his left eyelid in the fourth.

Baker appeared to be favoring his right hand most of the fight and after the seventh round hardly used it at all. The extent of the damage will not be known until X-rays are taken today.

Five Reds Ink Contracts For 1953

Cincinnati (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds yesterday announced five players—two of them regulars last season—have signed contracts for 1953.

Names
They are Ted Kluszewski, slugging first baseman; third baseman Bobby Adams; outfielders Gus Bell and Jim Greengrass, and pitcher Barney Martin.

tied Brooklyn's "Preacher" Roe and relief specialist Hoyt Wilhelm of the Giants with .833 apiece. Roe and Wilhelm both had 5-1 marks.

The lone unbeaten pitcher in the majors at night, among moundsmen who twirled 154 innings or more during the regular season, was Dave Koso of the Giants with a 3-0 slate.

Runnerup to Wynn in the American League after dark ratings was Philadelphia's Bobby Shantz with a 10-3 mark. Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees ranked third with 7-3.

Davis Coaching Undeclared Junior Varsity Football Squad In Second Year As Member Of East Stroudsburg High Staff

By Jim Riley

East Stroudsburg High School is currently featuring an undeclared junior varsity football team and the major force behind the present record of five victories and no setbacks is Delbert B. Davis, smiling 32-year-old coach who is currently in his second year of coaching at the N. Courtland St. school.

Del, very anxious to keep his middle name a deep, dark secret, opened his long and honorable athletic career as a student at Coughlin High, in Wilkes-Barre, the city where Davis first saw the light of day.

The laughing 215-pound grid mentor played both baseball and football in high school, catching for the diamond aggregation and playing fullback on the grid machine. Del graduated from high school in 1938.

Davis, who is five feet, 11 inches tall, entered Fordham in the fall of 1938, with a full athletic scholarship. Del played end in baseball and left field in baseball, but dropped out of college to play both pro baseball and football in 1940 and 1941.

The present East Stroudsburg

coach played in the New York Yankee system, having flings with Easton, Md., of the Eastern Shore League; Amsterdam, of the Ca-

League. His pro football career was with the New London Diesels, of the Connecticut State Pro League.

However, Del's pro career in both sports was cut short by an enlistment in the Navy in 1941 and entry into World War II, where the likeable mentor served on a cruiser for one year in the North Atlantic and on the same type ship in the South Pacific for two years.

Davis was hit in the thigh by a piece of shrapnel during the battle of Leyte Gulf, when the Americans fought their way back into the Philippine Islands. Del was on the Birmingham at the time of his injury, which began a long tour of hospitals for the current resident of Delaware Water Gap.

A total of one year was spent in hospitals in Honolulu, Oakland, Calif., and in Philadelphia. It was while stationed in Philadelphia that Davis first met Miss Jean Marino, who is now Mrs. Delbert B. Davis.

Moore May Get Shot At Maxim In St. Louis

New York (AP)—The off-again, on-again light heavyweight title bout between Champion Joey Maxim and Archie Moore may wind up in St. Louis, December 3 or December 17.

Cleveland and Detroit also are possibilities for the 175-pound title match that will be fitted into the regular Wednesday night television schedule.

Harry Markson, boxing director of the International Boxing Club, said yesterday a decision will be reached "within 24 hours." A conference has been scheduled among the managers of the two fighters and IBC representatives.

Plans for holding the bout in Las Vegas, December 3 collapsed last week.

Long Wait

Maxim defended his championship against Sugar Ray Robinson at Yankee Stadium June 25. Moore, the number one challenger for years, never got a chance at the big prize.

In New York, Johnny Bratton, former NBA welter king, was talking about going after the middleweight title if Robinson decides to retire. Bratton has an important welter date Friday at Madison Square Garden with left-hooking Joe Miceli of Brooklyn.

"I will have to wait a long time before I get a chance at Gavilan," said Bratton, "first he has 'Chuck' Davey and then somebody else. I'm waiting to hear what Robinson has to say after he talks to George Gainford, his manager."

Gainford was due home yesterday from an extended stay in France. Robinson, who makes his debut as a song and dance man at a mid-town cafe, November 7, said he would make no definite retirement decision until he talked to his manager.

Football Easy For Ike

New York (AP)—Campaigning for president is tougher than football, in the opinion of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Republican nominee was asked about it by a group of sports figures and sports writers last night and said of the electioneering:

"This is the toughest thing I ever saw. It may be all right for people experienced in it, but it is very fatiguing."

Damaged Knee

The general played football for West Point and came out of it with a damaged knee that still gives him a bit of trouble.

The 62-year-old Eisenhower said he plans to hide out for about 10 days after the November 4 election and get in some golf. He intends to do that, he added, regardless of the outcome.

Bangor Yearlings Play

State Hopeful Pete Will Play Like Steve Against Quakers

State College (AP)—Pete and Steve Schoderbek look alike. And Penn State's coach "Rip" Engle is hoping that on Saturday Pete's football playing is like Steve's.

Steve is the boy who vaulted from the scrubs to the role of star as Navy surprisingly tied Pennsylvania 7-7 at Philadelphia last Saturday.

Pete will have his chance this Saturday when Penn State meets Penn at Franklin Field.

Engle points out that Pete, although the younger of the two brothers hailing from Duquesne, Pa., has been the standout of the pair since entering college.

Saturday's game, he says, will be Pete's chance to take over the spotlight, once again from his older brother.

Penn's Quakers, of course, figure on having something to say about that but one thing sure is that they will certainly keep a more wary eye on Pete than they did on Steve Schoderbek at the outset of last week's Navy fracas.

Spark Drive

In that 7-7 deadlock, Steve almost single handedly drove the Middies on their 94-yard march to a touchdown in the third period. He hurried the Academy's touchdown pass.

Pete's first comment on his brother's feats against Penn was "Gosh!" then:

"When I picked up the papers and read about Steve I was stunned. But it was good news too. Because Steve told me in his last letter that he hoped he'd get his chance soon to prove that he was a good football player."

Football Player Sues Florida

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A Miami football player who was permanently injured in scrimmage and had his scholarship canceled by the University of Florida filed suit yesterday for $35,000 damages.

The circuit court suit was filed in behalf of Peter Schultz, an all-city tackle at Miami High School in 1950, against the State Board of Control.

Practice
It asked $10,000 for "breach of scholarship agreement" and $25,000 as the result of the University of Florida's alleged failure to provide proper physical examination or medical attention after the accident that injured his back.

During a practice scrimmage on November 5, 1951, according to Schultz other players "pushed and threw him to the ground with such force that his back was injured."

This mishap, together with the alleged failure of the university to provide proper medical treatment, aggravated an old injury and left him with a "fused spine" that permanently crippled him, Schultz said.

On April 20, 1952, Schultz continued, he was notified his scholarship had been canceled "contrary to a provision in the agreement that the scholarship would remain valid in the event of any injury during competition or practice."

Laurel Winner Falls Off Plane
London (AP)—Wilwyn, the British horse which defeated six rivals from four countries in the Washington, D.C. International race at Laurel, Md., slipped and fell when leaving a Pan-American Clipper yesterday after arrival from New York.

No Injury

A hind leg slid through a gap at the side of the plane ramp at London airport, but apparently there was no serious injury.

Warriors Seek Third Straight Favorable Nod

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and West Chester State Teachers renew their torrid soccer rivalry today on the West Chester field, with the long awaited contest scheduled to get underway at 2 p.m.

Today's rivals are currently locked in a duel that began back in 1939, with the Warriors holding a one-game edge at the present time.

ESSTC has won four games, lost three and tied two, while West Chester has won three, lost four and of course tied two.

However, the Rams of West Chester hold a slim edge of one goal in the series, having scored 16 times to 15 for the charges of Coach Howard DeNike.

ESSTC won the first four meetings of the two teams, but since 1947 have lost three games and tied two. The 1949 setback was in overtime, 4-1.

The Warriors have taken the measure of Wilkes College and Trenton Teachers thus far, this season, while West Chester opened with verdicts over the Alumni and Army, but in the last two outings have dropped 3-0 decisions to Penn and the University of Baltimore.

DeNike announced last night that 22 men and a manager would make the trip today, in addition to himself. The squad is scheduled to leave Normal Hill at 8 a. m.

The veteran ESSTC soccer mentor announced his starting lineup last night. The opening array will have Bill Schaeffer in the goal; Don Bachtel, right fullback; Fred Gahr, left fullback; John Rhen, right half; Joe Maloriello, center half; Lyle Krall, left half; Hobart "Hobe" Hutchins, outside right; Bob Hartman, inside right; Tom Foley, center forward; Al Shollenberger, inside left, and Carson Diffebaugh, outside left.

DeNike also pointed out that such talent as Enoch Hartland, Tom Roberts, Don Kline, Lee Hill, Jack Blair, Jake Wentz, Craig Leatherman, Dick McDonough, Bill Maloriello, Tony Black and Ted Evarish may see action in today's battle.

ESSTC returns to action on its home field at 2 p. m. on Saturday, with Ithaca College providing the opposition.

Four Tie In Daily Record Grid Contest

Picking the winners became a rather difficult problem for football forecasters last week, with upsets and unexpected tie game.

As a result, correctly naming 19 victorious teams in the 26-game list of The Daily Record football contest was good enough to tie for first place.

Group Fears Many Unable To Vote

New York, (AP)—The non-partisan American Heritage Foundation warned yesterday that millions of American voters may be shut out at the polls this year.

C. M. Vandenburg, executive director of the foundation, said in a statement: "The danger is that unless additional polling places are provided, for example, and additional hours added to the voting period, millions may find the polls closing on them and that will be a calamity."

Some areas permit anyone in line to vote when the polls close, Vandenburg said this safeguard is lacking in many states.

A football is not covered with pigskin as its nickname would indicate, but with steer hide.

Barrett Lions Plan Annual Charter Night

Mountainhome—The fourth annual "charter night" banquet of Barrett Lions Club will be held at Burgdorf's Barn Thursday at 7 p.m.

Following discussion by the members it was decided to offer tickets to the affair to the general public.

At its last business meeting, the club expressed the hope that this year's banquet would be well attended. President Lew Lewis announced a special roast beef dinner would be served.

In an interim progress report to the club Stephen Kosko described the collection of toys for needy children as "coming along very well."

Kosko also reported that painting, cleaning and reconditioning of the toys was progressing satisfactorily.

France Gets Biggest Share Of U. S. Aid

Paris (AP)—France, Italy and Britain got the biggest shares of a 729 million dollar melon the United States has split up among European nations this year for defense weapons under its off-shore procurement program.

The program is aimed to bolster Europe's economy, build its productive capacity and furnish arms for the North Atlantic Treaty nations.

The 729 million dollar allotment was for the 1951-1952 fiscal year, which ended in July, but the placing of orders has only recently been completed. Allotments for the 1952-1953 fiscal year have not been announced, though France already has been promised $525,000,000.

Ambassador William H. Draper Jr., U. S. special representative in Europe, said yesterday that France got almost half of the 1951-1952 allotment. French factories are producing nearly 350 million dollars worth of arms and equipment. Italy got the second largest share, with 140 million dollars and Britain was third with 75 million.

60 Students Form Club To Learn Golfing

Stroudsburg High School students—nearly 60 of them—have become members of a new club designed to teach the finer points of golfing.

Faculty adviser for the "golf club" is Jerry Stulgaitis of the school's science department.

Set up as a part of the Stroudsburg High "club system" which operates on a once-weekly meeting basis, the golfers unit has concentrated initially on "practice swings" during good weather with lessons on proper stance included.

With the advent of Winter, the club will be forced to confine its activities to indoor quarters, Stulgaitis said. Members are now looking for a good "practice" spot in the basement areas of the high school building.

Current plans include an all-out drive on one of the local golf links when spring weather comes.

Interest in golf as a sport and proper techniques used in playing has accounted for an unusually large membership in the club, Stulgaitis said.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. These are the messages the letters under the checked numbers spell out.

STUDY THIS DIAGRAM BEFORE VOTING

MAKE SURE YOUR VOTE COUNTS! When you go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 4 you will be casting your ballot in one of the most hotly-contested and stormiest presidential elections in recent history. Like all other Americans you want to make sure your vote counts—make sure you're voting for the right man—the man of your choice. If you are one of the 7,000 men and women in this county who have not received proper instruction on how to operate a voting machine you owe it to yourself to study the above diagram thoroughly. It is a diagram of a voting machine—the kind of machine you will be using to cast your vote Nov. 4th. It's a simple machine to use—but like an automobile it must be used properly or it won't do the things you want it to.

It's Time For Trick Or Treat; That Witch On Traditional Broomstick Is An Irish Elf

By M. E. Byrne
(Written Especially for Central Press and The Daily Record)

The observance of that gay festival, Halloween, seems to have come full circle in these United States.

When this happy holiday was first imported to our shores from Ireland, along with it, naturally, came the ancient custom of its observance, the business of "Trick or Treat."

In the hands of succeeding generations of inventive and mischievous American boys, however, Halloween became mostly "trick" and very little "treat."

Today Halloween vandalism has shrunk to an almost negligible factor and "treat" far overshadows "trick."

This is not necessarily due to Junior possibly being a better-behaved boy than Grandpop was at the same age. Chief reasons may be that houses have changed and the automobile has completely superseded the old one-hoss shay.

A couple of generations ago, house shutters really worked as such and almost every home was surrounded with a picket fence and, of course, a gate. Grandpapa and his pals just couldn't resist removing a neighbor's shutter or two and his fence gate and hanging them in trees or high from a telegraph pole.

Hauling the family buggy up onto a barn roof was the task for older boys with more muscle, but this too was accomplished. Oddly enough, it never seemed to occur to Grandpappy that he worked a stable roof than the owner would need to in getting it down again.

Today the picket fence and its gate are gone from the urban scene and any house shutters you may see are just part of the trim and fastened securely to the wall. And did you ever try to hoist a 2,000-pound or so eight-cylinder 1952 model atop a garage?

Soaping windows continues to be a Halloween stunt but this, too, is disappearing as more and more communities embrace the custom of offering prizes to school children for "artistically" decorating shop windows. Most shopkeepers heartily co-operate and let the kids smear away to their hearts content.

So it's back to "trick and treat" again and lots of parties at which apple-bobbing and costume wearing are the features.

Halloween as we know it, having originated in Ireland (give Scotland an assist, too) it is only natural that its elements of witches and goblins form such a major part, for these are really modern counterparts of the elf or Little Folk of the Emerald Isle.

The superstitious among the old Irish believed that any mischief that occurred at Halloween was the result of pranks by the Wee Ones. Transplanted to the New World the joke-playing spirits became witches, black-clothed with peaked hats, and complete with broomstick and ebony-hued cat.

It didn't take the inventive American mind long to find a suitable substitute for the goblins of old. Pumpkins are ripe at this time of year and almost anyone can easily convert one with a few deft knife strokes into a first-class jack o' lantern.

Today the pumpkin head, grinning into the night from many a window, as his candle flickers within, is the accepted symbol of Halloween.

Unknown is the name of that first American who turned a prosaic pumpkin into a cheerful jack o' lantern but you can bet to children he must rank a cut or two above Robert Fulton and Thomas A. Edison as a truly great inventor!

Educators Make Study Of Services

Fifty-four educators from Monroe, Wayne, Lackawanna and Susquehanna Counties have embarked on the first phase of a study of services now rendered by the office of county superintendent of schools to determine the effectiveness of those now rendered and to determine what additional services should be prevailed to improve the educational opportunities of American youth.

The study, now reaching the local level, was instigated by the Kellogg Foundation, an agency created with some $4,500,000 contributed by the Kellogg Company to the project of bringing better educational opportunities to American youth, especially in the rural areas.

Regional educators, representing District 17 of the nation-wide study who met Monday night in the Scranton Chamber of Commerce building, were County Superintendent of Schools John Litts, Asst. Superintendent Walter Sebring; Earl Groner, superintendent of Stroudsburg schools; Carl T. Secor, supervising principal, East Stroudsburg schools; Howard Eckert, secretary, East Stroudsburg school district; Miss Miriam Lark, vocational home economics adviser; W. B. Frisbie, vocational agriculture adviser; Bennett Strait, special education adviser; Mrs. Wendy Mazer, president of Monroe County PTA; H. G. Heller, editor of The Daily Record; delegates from Wayne headed by County Superintendent Homer Ammerman; delegation from Susquehanna County headed by County Superintendent Wayne Webster; Lackawanna County group headed by County Superintendent Thomas Francis.

Mr. Ammerman was chairman of the conference. Two group meetings were set up, dividing the 54 present equally for the purpose of studying the county school unit—named for the purposes of the meeting as the intermediate educational unit—as to present services offered and possible services which should be offered.

Dr. Frank Cyr, professor of education, Columbia University, the regional college supervising the eastern states phase of the study, briefly outlined purpose of the study.

Mr. Webster conducted one of the group meetings and Mr. Francis the other. Mr. Litts was recorder of the Webster group.

The general discussions in both groups dealt largely with services which the intermediate office should add to provide better educational opportunities to boys and girls.

Among the proposals for additional services were: An audio visual aid library and specialist; psychologist, reading specialist, special attorney specializing in school laws, consultants in music, art, curriculum consultant, speech correction consultant.

Many of the additional services were given new significance by Dr. Charles Boehm, superintendent of schools in Bucks County, where sudden and very tremendous growth of schools made necessary by the location of the United States Steel Works in that region.

Boehm, a consultant in District 17 for the Kellogg study, highlighted the difference in services to youth rendered by metropolitan and rural schools and the necessity of providing an "equalizer."

Dr. Sampson Smith, president of the rural county superintendents of schools, maintained that the supplying of additional services, especially in rural regions, to raise the standards of education will be the ultimate salvation of our civilization.
